INDIANAPOLIS FOR BOWLING LEAGUE OCCURS THURSDAY NIGHT.

The Marions Will Probably Win the Championship-News of the League -Bowling Notes.

CLUBS.

The games scheduled for next Thursday night will complete the championship season of the Indianapolis Bowling League The Marions already have the championship cinched for this season. This team has rolled an excellent game from the start, and after getting to the top did not take a slump, as did the Turners, who were strong candidates for several weeks for the championship.

Captain Bryson, of the Marions, has dropped from first place in the average list to third. Ben Brown now occupies first place, with only a small per cent. ahead of Burton. Bryson and Brown, members of the same team, say they will finish first and second, and it looks as if Brown would carry off the honors. Next Thursday night's bowling will decide the matter, when the Marions meet the Volunteers on the Washington alleys. The members of the Marion team will have to keep in practice for nearly two months to roll for the bowling trophy offered this season to the clubs of the various leagues finishing first. The other leagues do not finish their chan pionship season for several weeks.

FOND DU LAC WINS AGAIN

VISITORS COMPLETELY RUN AWAY FROM THE Y. M. C. A. BOYS.

Umpire Bartlett Again Stretched His Authority-The Score 29 to 13 at End of Second Half.

The Fond du Lac basket ball team experienced but little trouble in defeating the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. team at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium again last night. At the conclusion of the second half the score stood 29 to 13 in favor of the visitors. There was again an evidence of unfairness on the part of Umpire Bartlett, of Fond du Lac, who had made things unpleasant for the Indianapolis players in Friday night's game. Last night he again gloated over his chances to call fouls on the least provocation. The Fond du Lac team played faster in last night's game than they did in the first contest, and they completely ran away from the local players. Their tactics at times were bewildering and seemed to confuse the Y. M. C. A. players. Rogers, the light-haired young player of the Fond du Lac team, was always in evidence, as was also Brunkhorst, and these two landed the ball in the basket at frequent intervals from the field. Rogers made many brilliant plays which won applause from the small crowd. The best work shown by the Indianapolis players was done by Fleming and Pearson before they retired from the game in the second half. Fleming went out on account of illness and Pierson retired because he did not desire to play any longer. Up until that time he had played a good game. Harden and McGaughey were substituted. and, while they played hard, the local team seemed to lose its nerve and the visitors played trick after trick which the Indianapolis boys were unable to head off. The line-up and summary follow: Fond du Lac. Position. Indianapolis. Buck......Purves Brunette...... Smith Lost His Watch. Jack Smith reported to the police yesterday that while he was sitting at a table n the convention hall some man unknown to him leaned over him and asked about the vote received by some man not on the ticket. A few moments later he found his watch was gone and he thought his questioner had taken it. He said his coast was thrown back and that the watch could easily have been taken, a fob chain only being attached to it.

As a Woman Saw Mrs. Dewey. Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

We had scarcely made our way into the East Room when an unwonted stir among the guests caused everybody to start forward eagerly, and immediately a murmur ran around, "Admiral and Mrs. Dewey." Mrs. Dewey was entirely different from my preconceived idea of her. The papers had spoken of a "gracefully rounded fig-ure," of a face "fair, mobile and untouched by any marks of time." Well, if I had been making out her passport I should not have set her down thus. She was, however, a charming, pleasing woman. Her smiling face was surrounded by a profusion of reddish hair, dressed elaborately and graced with a diamond aigrette. She wore a beautiful frock of heavy white lace, made in long, severe lines, and cut decollete. But the striking thing about her, and the thing that seemed to catch every eye, was an unusually large and brilliant object depending from her neck. I was just about to whisper to Robert when a naval officer's wife standing near me ejaculated loud enough for me to hear: "I do believe she is wearing the admiral's

State of Vermont! I was so lost in wonderment at the begemmed object and at the diamonds which glittered upon her neck that I was oblivious of time, until Robert said testily: "Are you going to stand there staring at her all night, Agatha?" I was recalled to myself only to find that had lost my opportunity to be presented to the hero of Manila and his bride, My disappointment was keen thereat, but was somewhat softened by the fact that my evening at the executive mansion had been something in the nature of a liberal edu-jeweled watch, presented to him by the CARRIAGE IN WHICH SHE WAS RID-ING STRUCK BY A CAR.

on Her Way to the Union Station with Her Maid When the Accident Occurred.

There was a finale to the engagement of the Alice Nielsen Opera Company last night which was not on the programme and was not prearranged, but it caused more real excitement that the little prima donna had bargained for. After the curtain went down on the last act of "The Fortune Teller" at English's there was a rush among the members of the company to prepare for the departure to Chicago on

Miss Nielsen, with her colored maid and two other members of the company, entered a carriage at the stage entrance, and orders were given to the driver to hurry to the Union Station. The driver, anxious to fulfill his part of the contract, became a little reckless, and in turning into Illinois street at Market street did not notice rapidly approaching Indiana-avenue car. The motorman was unable to shut off the power in time to stop the car, and as the carriage drove across the track the car struck the vehicle squarely in the center. Lucily the motorman had shut off the current and the force of the collision was not enough to overturn the hack or to demolish it. of the Oneida club, was very poor in the But when the car struck the carriage there were loud screams from the colored maid and Miss Nielsen fainted from fright. A crowd collected almost instantly and some one rushed to a drug store for whisky. This was offered to Miss Nielsen, but by that time she had regained consciousness and refused to take it. The other occupants of the carriage, who had received a severe shaking up by the force of the collision, were greatly excited, and, fearing that Miss Nielsen might be injured. insisted on taking her to the hotel, but to Oneida club, will bowl Pritchard, of the this she protested, and demanded the driver North Sides, a ten-game match on the In- to proceed to the depot. "THE FORTUNE TELLER"

Is Greeted by a Large and Enthusiastie Andience. "The Fortune Teller," which is the op eratic foundation of Alice Nielsen's presen position as the idol of Indianapolis, was revived at English's Opera House last nigh before the largest audience of her engage ment just closed. Despite the drawback encountered in the absence of Marguerite Sylva from her last season's role of Mile Pompon and of Richie Ling from the cast the revival was distinctly successful. I many ways "The Fortune Teller" is su perior to "The Singing Girl," entertaining as the latter undoubtedly is. The scenery costumes and stage pictures are all morbeautiful, while the finales of the secon and third acts are of that stirring, thrill ing type that is rarely met with in comi-opera in these latter days. The truth is, production like "The Fortune Teller" is al most as great a rarity in the domain o comic opera as a play of the "Cyrano d Bergerac" order is in the field of drama. Miss Nielsen and her corps of worth principals were given greater opportunitie in "The Fortune Teller" and improve them to the keener staisfaction of the aud ence and to their own advantage in th way of augmented approval. The chies hits of the evening were Alice Nielsen's cute song about being good and consequently happy, Mr. Cowles's serenade, "Gypsy Sweetheart," the descriptive "nationality" song by Miss Nielsen and company, winding up with the famous cake-walk and the great hussar chorus finales, with female drum corps accompaniment The trio of comedians, Messrs. Slavin Cawthorn and Herbert, were unusually active in their efforts to keep the vein of fun always at the surface. Mr. Cawthorn drew heavily upon his apparently inexhaustible fund of German comedy and succeeded in being funnier than he had been in a similar role in "The Singing Girl."
